removing roadblocks to resilience

Deb Needham

PUSH

What has pushed you, challenged you?

What makes someone resilient?

normalizing "homelessness" is the opposite of what we do.

*need solutions for today (not as much as for emergencies tomorrow)

Shifted?

allow for including more people eek!

"there are NO NATURAL DISASTERS" move to living better day to day unlearn everything!

hmm...

Resisting?

it's a nightmare! to include everything

it's so BIG

all the pieces... hard to get traction

the COST of everything for emergency preparedness...

What would it take to satisfy your concern and help move you forward?

on the path to resilience...

are we creating dependencies?

information + inspiration ⇓ implementation!

What are you resisting?

Show gratitude + love

Conversations!

relate current issue to preparedness!

2016 Vulnerable Populations Disaster Planning Conference May 25

UASI Urban Area Security Initiative

a path forward – a call to action

Ana Marie Jones

How did you get over the resistance?

ex: Public Speaking

- self-rewards
- practice
- it was important!
- Think about something that really mattered

3 Audiences

- neutral
- hate you
- love you

doesn't matter if you are passionate about it.

What do you feel PASSIONATE about?

What lights you up??

if they connect over one issue, then easier to deal with them for anything else

add to my list:

- ☑ make a list of all community groups
- ☑ get youth + children involved
- ☑ take "disaster" out of the conversation

Key Issues

affordable housing

community buy-in preparing = daily life

dive in to the difficult stay out of silos ~ engage!

focus on outcomes

aspirational

clear + concise

connectedness

participatory decision-making implicit bias

new, accessible communication — bridge the gap meet them where they're at

plan with community

long term – energy!

people do want to be involved

live graphic recording anne@TheDoodleBiz.com