Classification descriptions are intended to present a descriptive list of the range of duties performed by employees in this class and are not intended to reflect all duties performed within the job.

GENERAL FUNCTION

This is responsible and complex legal support work for the Family Support Division of the Prosecuting Attorney's Office. Employees in this class are responsible for performing highly complex and varied secretarial and legal technical activities requiring a firm grasp of the legal terminology, processes and procedures required by the work of this position. An employee in this classification reviews cases referred by the Washington State Department of Child and Family Services to determine if the case is an appropriate referral. The employee schedules and conducts interviews of custodians/custodial parents of minor children regarding parentage. Work includes preparing pleadings, affidavits, witness testimony, service of process and other legal documents as required by this state and other states. Ongoing monitoring of cases includes regular telephone contact and correspondence with custodians/custodial parents and government agencies until biological parent is served and paternity established. An employee in this position works closely with the public and governmental agencies both within and outside Washington State. Work is performed with considerable latitude for independent judgment and is reviewed by supervising attorneys for results attained and quality of services provided.
